

FSMA CONSULTING SERVICES

If you need help understanding how FSMA will affect your business or are concerned about potential compliance issues, look to NSF International, a longtime leader in food safety and regulation, for solutions. The NSF consulting group provides the scientific and technical expertise necessary to deliver cost-effective solutions that address your FSMA concerns.

Whether you need essential documentation, assistance with supply chain traceability or a reliable roadmap to compliance, our food safety consulting team can guide you through the FSMA compliance rules.

NSF'S FSMA CONSULTING SERVICES INCLUDE:

- > Gap assessments. Our on-site consultant identifies any potential FSMA compliance issues within your business and the best strategies to resolve them.
- > Document alignment. We help you prepare the required documents, monitoring forms and facility registration paperwork. We also provide FSMA-ready document templates supported with remote consulting.
- > Preventive controls assistance. NSF provides expertise on FSMA's risk-based preventive controls related to food defense, process controls, supply chain, sanitation and allergens.
- > Supplier approval. Our supplier approval program includes the vetting of supplier documentation that results in a compliance rating for potential suppliers. We collect all necessary FSMA-related documentation, review it and store it on secure NSF servers. In the event of a recall or an outbreak of foodborne illness, you will have ready access to your related supplier paperwork.

No matter what role you play in the food supply chain – whether primary production, warehousing, distribution, manufacturing, broker/ importer/exporter, retailer or anywhere in-between – NSF can help your business meet FSMA requirements.
